

The New York Times

Miri Cypers, David Rosenbaum

Published: August 19, 2011

Miri Ilana Cypers, a daughter of Jackie Tavelman and Michael L. Cypers of Los Angeles, is to be married Sunday evening to David Jacob Rosenbaum, the son of Janine Rosenbaum and Rabbi Jay Rosenbaum of Mercer Island, Wash. The bridegroom's father is to officiate at Vibiana, an event space in Los Angeles.

Enlarge This Image

Eliza Cypers

The bride, 25, is the senior policy and advocacy specialist at Jewish Women International, an organization in Washington focused on violence against women. She graduated cum laude from Barnard. Her parents work in Los Angeles, her father as a partner in Crowell & Moring, a Washington law firm, and her mother as an English teacher at Discovery Charter

Preparatory School.

The bridegroom, also 25, coordinates legislative issues with Congress at the Transportation Security Administration. He graduated from George Washington. His mother is the head librarian at the Seattle Hebrew Academy in Seattle. His father is the senior rabbi of Herzl-Ner Tamid Conservative Congregation in Mercer Island.

- RECOMMEND
- TWITTER
- LINKEDIN
- SIGN IN TO E-MAIL
- PRINT
- REPRINTS
- SHARE

Log in to see what your friends are sharing on nytimes.com. Log In With Facebook Privacy Policy | What's This?

What's Popular Now

The Obamacare We Deserve

Edward Snowden, Whistle-Blower

