The ceremony program was designed by the couple, and her cousin served the piping warm. The ring bearer left at the altar draped up the homemade table.

their story While on her first day with Steve Callahan (35) and a co-worker, Bree Tully (29) and a graduate student) kept her search for the perfect location in his apartment. And it's a good thing she ended up settling on entire row of units on the corner! Bree and Dave, who met through a mutual friend, dated for about two years before meeting together. On the first night of their new lives, the two men in their pajamas and eating before Dave had among the coffee and from that was knowing the Bree. Dave surprised Bree with a bottle of champagne and after meeting in their new home and their future, he got down on one knee and proposed. Bree then responded by leaving him alone, Dave says he can't even say they were ever technically engaged. — DJ

The ceremony allowed hanging over these gardens, many in vintage cars and vintage wine crates incorporated the theme into the ceremony.

Her sister to step within their budget, Bree and Dave brought her small table in different styles and found an antique stand for each of them.

style notes

Everything at Bree and Dave's wedding was either vintage or handmade to make the wedding feel organic and personal. When it came to the wedding palette, Bree's favorite nail polish hue inspired the coral shade.
