AMY KNOLL FRASER

OWNER/OPERATOR, REDBIRD, VIBIANA, BLD, &
ICDC

When we think of great restaurants, we think of food—its perfect presentation and the tastes that linger. Or we think of the service, the sommelier who knew exactly what we wanted or the server who didn't miss a beat. Then there's the ambience, the perfect light, vaulted ceilings, the warm buzz of conversation. Rarely do we think of the person behind this scene.

At Redbird, one of Los Angeles' new(ish) and lauded restaurants, Amy Knoll Fraser is that woman. As co-owner with her husband, Neal Fraser (Redbird's chef), you'll find her everywhere—floating across the floor, greeting guests or leading operational meetings. She can also be found next door at Vibiana, the Fraser's newly restored events space in what was once the first Archdiocese Catholic cathedral of Los Angeles.
